IMPACT FACTOR 4.70

“It is no surprise that Soft Matter is doing so well- we simply need a journal such as this in our community”

Christos Likos,
The Heinrich Heine University of Düsseldorf

Soft Matter's impressive impact factor* of 4.70 places it firmly at the top of its field. With the new immediacy index of 0.784, the journal also maintains its position as number one publisher of topical and urgent soft matter research.

With a vibrant mix of article types (including communications, articles, reviews and highlights), rapid publication (typically 100 days from receipt), global circulation and an interdisciplinary audience Soft Matter is first choice for authors and readers alike.
